

access to the equipment in a timely manner, and we will continue to provide support in order to help our country to quickly overcome this crisis.”

Professor Dr. Surapon Nitikraipot, Chairman of the Executive Board, Thammasat University Hospital, said “Thammasat University Hospital is genuinely grateful for Banpu Public Company Limited for its help in supporting the construction and improvement of negative pressure rooms as well as providing ventilator machines for patients infected with COVID-19. The negative pressure room is useful in terms of preventing cross-contamination between rooms and, therefore, protecting medical personnel not to be infected from patients. Ventilator machines are also needed for patients with respiratory failure due to pneumonia. The support we receive today will help the hospital to be better prepared to cope with this public health crisis in Thailand.”
